We're finally back with a big news post. It's been a while since I've had to write a post on the world and now is the time to bring you some of the new additions and features that you'll be getting in ToS! We've only managed to fit one post in here so far as we've had so many cool features and additions to be bringing out but there are plenty more to be coming soon. To start off, let's get to what's new! First up on the topic of hunting is the new Nomad mode which is going to be a very welcome addition. The main idea of the Nomad mode is that it replaces the journey through the world map and instead becomes a permanent wandering zone that is meant to be a big part of the game. It's going to be quite a big feature to write a whole new section to the guide to explain but we'll be doing our best to bring you plenty of information about what it is and how it will work. There will be plenty of news to come in the future about how the Nomad mode works and what you can expect from it. Speaking of news, we've got a ton of new animals for you! Even if you're not planning on hunting them in the wild, it's time to show them off to the world, including a special fully buffed up version of the Lumina lorin. Lumina is a fearsome creature that was featured in our lore articles a few months back and she makes her way into ToS! The Lumina will appear in a few of the locations in the world to give you a chance to add a little more variety to your story by hunting her down. Aside from that, there's plenty of other animals to be found in the world. Some of them will be appearing in their standard appearance while some will be special versions of the animals, including buffed-up versions of some of your favourite ones. We'll be adding more to come in the future as we add in some of the smaller updates. For the changes and additions that are currently coming to the game, you can expect to see the following: Small changes to how the base gameplay works This is probably going to be one of the biggest changes that we're adding to the game.
